BEAUTIFUL LAKE COCHICHEWICK

Years ago a Famous Resort of the Historic Red Men.

There are few regions in New England which the wild legends and traditions of the fast-vanishing race of red men have not invested with a peculiar charm. The poetic legends of Whittier have made famous the White Hills of New Hampshire, and the lake region of that state as well, but there are many other localities, equally worthy, which are still unsung, and the legends which remain to remind us of aboriginal days are fast vanishing into forgetfulness.

Such a region is that in the immediate neighborhood of Lake Cochichewick, in North Andover, where, hundreds of years ago, the noble race of red men built their graceful wigwags and lighted their council fires. There they watched the golden maize ripen in the fertile meadows under the influence of the September sun, and pursued the bounding deer through the dense forests. Lake Cochichewick was then, as now, one of the most beautiful sheets of water in all this region, and its waters were as clear and cool as a shower of pearls.

The same conditions exist now. No polluted streams flow into it, but it is fed by springs in the bottom of the lake, which make its waters absolutely pure, and always cold and clear. Its shores are covered with small, smooth pebbles, and upon adjacent hillside forests of oak and evergreen still remain.

At the lower end of the lake three large ice houses have been erected and filled with ice from this clear body of water. Six thousand tons have been housed here by EDWARD ADAMS, who is prepared to furnish ice of absolute purity to his customers. It is vastly different from the ordinary ice sold in New England, and it can be obtained by leaving your order at the store of VALPEY BROTHERS, Andover.

Strictly Pure Ice!

Citizens of Andover desiring a strictly pure article of ice should see that their supply comes from Ponds pond. As pure a sheet of water as there is in Massachusetts, surrounded by hill and wood. Fed entirely by springs, there is no chance for impurities, not even locomotive cinders. It is of as much historic interest as her larger sister in connection with the Red Men or the Black, and is not behind in sentimentality, and it is ahead in purity.

I secured two thousand tons of ice from its surface the past winter, and am prepared to furnish persons with it at reasonable rates in quantities to suit. Orders left with REA & ABBOTT will receive prompt attention.

ANDOVER NEWS.

For other Andover News, see Pages 4 and 8.

George H. Parker is having a system of hot water heat put into his store. E. Pike is doing the work.

The town has purchased of Margaret Mills the Heatherwood land, next west of Bailey's Grove, at Haggett's Pond, to be used as the place for the pumping station of the water works.

The Electric Company is putting up the circuit of wires for the arc lights now, and it is expected that they will be ready to light in a week.

When the men began to run wires on the telephone posts last week, they were stopped by some of the sub-telephone bosses, but after looking into the matter, it was found to be only according to an agreement, and this week they were allowed to go ahead.

Little Willis Butterfield, son of James P. Butterfield, had remarkable luck fishing last Friday, in one of Andover's ponds, which one was not revealed to the writer. He brought home seventeen handsome pick-erel, one of which weighed 2 3-4 pounds, two, 2 pounds apiece, and the rest were of a very good size. It is very seldom, indeed, when we hear of such luck by any of our anglers, and the news of another record like this in our town will be awaited with interest.

Remember the auction at the Samuel F. Woodbridge estate to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Band Excursion.

The appearances of the weather early last Saturday morning were not very cordial for a pleasant day, but old Prob. must have been a friend of the Band, for he so arranged matters that a splendid day was given the musicians for their annual excursion. The train left here at 7.45, stopping at Frye Village, South Lawrence, and North Andover, between 500 and 600 going from these places. Some 200 more boarded the boat at Haverhill, making a large party. The trip down the Merrimack, though a little slow on account of some trouble about the boat, was just as enjoyable as ever and the scenery just as pretty. The Band discoursed music about all the way on the boat and everybody was kept in good spirits. The arrival at Black Rocks was made about 12.30, considerably behind time, but as soon as the landing was made the party broke up, some going to Salisbury and others remaining at the Rocks.

Early in the afternoon on the beach there was a tug-of-war contest and a 100yds dash. The former was between five from Marland Mills and five from the Tyler Rubber factory. Marlands won after a hard struggle. The following composed the teams: Marlands, T. Martin, Garside, Wrigley, McIntosh, and Connelly; Rubber Factory, J. Donovan, A. Hulme, Harnden, Morse, and McTernan. The prize was a box of cigars. McCollum of Marland Village won the 100yds dash with John Joubet, an out of town member of the Band, second. A pipe presented by George C. Lyle was given as a prize for the contest. Dancing occupied the attention of many in the capacious hall, the Andover orchestra furnishing music.

About 4 o'clock all embarked for the homeward trip, reaching Haverhill about 8. Here some ill feeling was caused, by a doubt as to which depot they should go to take the train, but the trouble was in no way the fault of the Band. The arrangement, as made by the committee, was that the train should land the party at the city depot and leave there. But instead of this by some mistake the train went to the depot on the Bradford side in the morning and so a large number of people started across the bridge for the same place in the evening on the return, but found that the train was at the city depot. The Band boys were sorry that there was any such occurrence, but no blame can be attached to them. Taken as a whole the excursion was one of the best ever given by the Band, and all expressed themselves as having had a good time. The crowd was very orderly and quiet. Some $75 profit was the result of the excursion.

CHIPS AND CLIPS.

A California paper says that in San Bernardino the town is kept clear of tramps by holding them under a waterspout for thirty minutes and then ordering them to leave —an order which is immediately obeyed. This hydropathic hint is commended to Mr. Walter B. Allen.

It is said that the introduction of electric light has resulted in a marked diminution of crime in Pittsburg, Pa. We fear the introduction of the electric light poles in Andover will not tend to diminish bad thoughts or bad words on the part of those who reside near them.

John Hanks, a cousin of Abraham Lincoln's mother, who died at Hickory Point, Ill., Monday, at the age of 87, was the man who stirred up easy going Thomas Lincoln to leave Kentucky for Illinois and helped him build his log cabin on the Sangamon. The Hanks family were all bright. Nancy, the mother of the President is described as unusually intellectual for her station, and John, her cousin, was a shrewd and witty man, in whom Abraham Lincoln always delighted. In his later years he enjoyed nothing so much as telling anecdotes of the great President.—Exchange.

It will be remembered that Rev. S. W. Hanks, the veteran Secretary of the Seamen's Friend Society, formerly a Lowell pastor, belongs to that same family, and he claims that that is where President Lincoln got his good looks and his bright sayings!

Young man (to editor)—Did you receive a poem from me, sir? Editor—I believe I did. Young man—After looking it over, were you able to do anything with it? Editor—Yes, I had just strength left to throw it in the basket.—Harper's Bazar.

She glided into the office and quietly approached the editor's desk.

"I have written a poem"—she began. "Well!" exclaimed the editor with a look and tone intended to annihilate, but she would not annihilate worth a cent, and resumed:

"I have written a poem on 'My Father's Barn,' and"—

"Oh!" interrupted the editor with extraordinary suavity, "you don't know how relieved I feel. A poem written on your father's barn, eh? I was afraid it was written on paper and that you wanted me to publish it. If I should ever happen to drive past your father's barn I'll stop and read the poem. Good afternoon, miss."—Detroit Free Press.

"What is your record on earth?" asked St. Peter at the gate, of another applicant for admission.

"I was an editor, and I ran my paper to the satisfaction of the entire community."

"My dear sir," earnestly responded the heavenly guardian, "go to the next floor above. This place is not good enough for you."

The small boy is a terror when he has an inquiring mind. Such a boy strolled into the editor's room the other day, and at once proceeded to down the patient man at the desk.

"Are you on the paper?" asked the boy.

"Yes."

"What do you do?"

"Write for it."

"Write all the time?"

"Yes."

"Don't do anything else?"

"No."

"Just wait for somebody to do something and then write about it?"

"Yes."

"Um!" ejaculated the small boy with a look of deep disgust as he walked off.

The toiler at the desk did not laugh. Never before had he felt so small and mean. He had been made to see himself from a new point of view.—Atlanta Constitution.

During a recent thunder storm in New York some singular electrical effects were noticed. The News reports that a ball of light darted along with a "whizzing sound and a 313-309 motion." That the reporter wrote "zig-zag motion" anybody will conclude who will write "313-309" hastily, and assume that the printer was in a hurry and wrought in a sad sincerity. But the typographical phenomenon is more remarkable in its way than the electric.

A printer took the liberty to make the proof of an article for a drug store journal read "testimonial lard" instead of "antimonial lead;" another set the "toper of Babel" instead of "tower."

In a letter to a correspondent's department of a paper a young man said he was of the genus homo, but the printer thought to correct him, judging from the tone of the letter no doubt, so he was made to say he belonged to the "green horn."

But the most nonsensical of all the blunders is one that came to light in the proof room. The item read, "The prisoner managed to stay in his cell for twenty days on short diet;" but something suddenly took possession of the printer, and his proof read, "The prisoner managed to stay in his cell for twenty days and shout dirt."

A preacher at Tamar, Iowa, recently asked all the congregation who paid their debts to rise. All rose but an editor. It ought to be nothing against an editor if he happens to be the only honest man in a crowd.—Peck's Sun.

"Dear Mr. Editor: Please read the enclosed poem carefully and return it to me with your candid criticism as soon as possible, as I have other irons in the fire."

"Dear Mr. Smith: Remove the irons and insert the poem."—Journalist.

BOOKS AND READING.

The Century for August is well labelled "Midsummer Holiday Number"—not too heavy, not too light, for vacation reading. The Stream of Pleasure, the opening article, is not a rhetorical metaphor, but the River Thames in England, down which the writers floated in their green boat. The description of the places and experiences, through which the voyagers passed, is extremely interesting. Another article treats in a scientific and yet popular manner of Poison of Serpents, including discussion of the best antidotes. The Abraham Lincoln "History" takes up three topics of interest to all who lived through the period described—The Chicago Surrender, Conspiracies in the North, Lincoln and the Churches. George Kennan's account of State Criminals at the Kara Mines is continued and will be eagerly read. The Bible in Tennyson, by Henry van Dyke, is especially appropriate just now as the Laureate has passed his eightieth birthday. The article gives examples of the poet's scriptural quotations, and traces "a few of the lines of thought and feeling in which Tennyson shows most clearly the influence of the Bible." Another most readable paper is Mr. Remington's article, Wanderings Among the Cheyennes. Wood-Engravers in Camp is a charming story of practical experience in the Connecticut Valley—Hockanum; Hadley, Hatfield, etc.—and is finely illustrated by evidently life-like pictures of "Uncle Moses" and "Aunt Priscilla." In the same line is Originality in Wood Engraving, the scene of which is also laid in the same part of the Connecticut Valley. Geo. W. Cable's story is The Haunted House in Royal Street, and the author of "Uncle Remus" gives us the first installment of The Old Bascom Place." Of Italian Old Masters Mr. Stillman describes this month Fra Angelico and his masterpieces. How Man's Message outran the Moon is a brief but notable incident in the eclipse observations of last January. For other contents, see the magazine itself. [Century Co., New York; $4 a year.]

CHILDREN'S CIRCLE.

A Child's Walk in Andover.

The following article, written for the children's Column by an Andover girl shows an appreciation of true beauty, which we think older readers will sympathize with:

The beauty of Andover—what can be more beautiful than these tall stately poles, which rise as giants on our streets? We might realize the beauty by a little story, as follows:

Once upon a time I went to see my friend, and we concluded to take a walk together. We went up a high hill and staid quite a while and had a real nice time. We then thought we would take a walk along a shady road; so we started out, and the first thing we saw was an Electric Light Pole. We continued and we came to another Electric Light Pole about five rods distant. We went in another place and all of a sudden we came upon a tall Electric Light Pole, and we could see quite a number of Electric Light Poles in the distance.

Finally we came to a corner in the road as we were walking along and pretty soon we came upon an Electric Light Pole. Oh! what a beauty, how elegant these Electric Light Poles are. How can we get along without them?

One after another we could see them for some little ways about five rods apart, perhaps a little more. We became very familiar with them until, finally, we went beyond the limits of those stately ornaments. Why shouldn't we have them on all the streets! It looks lonely not to have the eye catch a glimpse of one Electric Light Pole in the distance if not near by.

The annual convention of delegates of Grand Army Posts of Essex County was held at Salem Wednesday afternoon. It was voted to hold a county parade at Newburyport, Sept. 19th. It is proposed to have a short parade, a picnic and excursion on the Merrimack.

The lumber of the scaffold on which John Brown was executed has been purchased by Gen. Coit of Washington. He will publicly exhibit the scaffold and intends to use the proceeds for the erection of a monument of John Brown between Harper's Ferry and Charleston, W. Va.

Charles Atwood, an Orange farmer, left his home Saturday to attend to some money matters, and has not been seen since. His horse and wagon have been found in the woods, the robe being partly covered with blood. Near by were the man's coat badly blood-stained, his watch and chain and an empty pocket book. When he left home, he had about $30 with him, and the theory is that he was murdered by tramps for his money.

John Blatchford, employed at C.H. Woodbury's carbonated drink works in Beverly, fell while going up stairs Monday afternoon with a pitcher of vitrol in his hands. The fluid was thrown upon his person, and he was badly burned about the face and neck. So rapid was the work that two woolen shirts which he wore were burned nearly off of him before they could be removed. His companions turned a stream of water on him from a hand hose, or he would have been disfigured for life.

There was a very destructive fire in a nest of buildings at the corner of Dodge and Lafayette streets, Salem, last Saturday morning, entailing a loss of over $30,000. The fire was confined to the interior of the structures. Upward of 500 operatives are thrown out of employment by the burning of factories and the suspension of power from Goodell's engine, which run the machinery for several factories that escaped the flames.

United States Supreme Justice Field yesterday met ex-Judge Terry in the restaurant of the railway station at Lathrop, California. Terry, to revenge an imaginary wrong, rose from his chair deliberately and slapped Justice Field on the face. Deputy Marshall Nagle, who was in the company of Justice Field, shot Terry dead. Terry has a bad record having resigned a number of years ago his office as judge of the Supreme Bench of California to fight a duel with Senator Broderick, whom he killed.

President Harrison left Bar Harbor Wednesday in a heavy rain storm and arrived in the evening at Manchester, N. H., where he spent the night as the guest of ex-Governor Cheney. Along the route from Bar Harbor a long halt was made at Bath, where the President visited the shipyards and was entertained by Arthur Sewell, Esq. A short stop was made at Portsmouth and other places. The reception at Manchester eclipsed any other popular demonstration since the President started on his journey. Yesterday he was accorded a reception at Concord.

Brown, Steese and Clark, commission wool dealers of Boston, who failed last week, will settle in insolvency. M. J. Dickinson Jr. counsel for the firm stated that the whereabouts and intentions of Mr. Brown were wholly unknown; that it could not be ascertained how much of the firm's funds, if any at all, had been taken by Mr. Brown, and that the latter had been known to cash one note of indebtedness for $15,000 just prior to his departure. Mr. Amasa Clark the junior member of the firm, is an old Andover boy, being a nephew of the late Mrs. Benjamin Pynchard. A number of older residents remember him.

Two more bodies were taken out of the sand at Johnstown Friday. One was identified as that of Alexander Hamilton, Jr., a prominent resident of the town. It is very evident that there are yet a great many bodies to be found in the cellars and other places where there are piles of dirt. Notwithstanding, the employees, to the number of about 80, who were under the immediate direction of the sanitary corps, will all be dismissed to-day and only three or four men will be left on duty in the office of the state board of health. This turn of affairs is discouraging to Johnstown people who had hoped to see enough men put to work to clean out all the cellars and take away the foul smelling rubbish everywhere. The board of inquiry has made a final report of the loss of life, figuring it at 611.

Glen Mills Breadstuffs.

Among their specialties are

GOLDEN CORN MEAL,

made from the very best pure yellow corn, thoroughly cleansed, ground and bolted by a process peculiar to this mill. It distances all other bolted meals in the market in sweetness and flavor.

ENTIRE WHEAT FLOUR

is made from selected, choice, ripe wheat, the grain first having been thoroughly cleansed, scoured and brushed, the woody fibre discarded, the inner brand retained, and the whole reduced to a uniform fineness by a process peculiar to our own mills. Every effort of the mind or movement of the muscle involves the waste of nervous energy and vitality; we must build up our systems by those elements which will replace those wastes. Chemical analysis shows us that waste flour cannot do this, as the best part of the wheat is sacrificed for the sake of the color.

GLEN MILLS ENTIRE WHEAT FLOUR

contains all the elements of the wheat, stored there by our Creator for our use.

Those preferring a coarse Graham should use the

Glen Mills True Wheat Meal

the best wheat meal in the market.

GLEN MILLS NEW PROCESS RYE MEAL,

is made from the best quality of White Rye, which before it comes from the mills is thoroughly cleansed from all impurities, so that nothing comes to the reducing mills but plump, sound rye, as clean as washing can make it. One five pound package of our rye meal will convince you of its merits.

WHITE CORN MEAL,

NOTES OF THE WEEK.	3
SUNDAY NEWS AND NOTES.	7

The town is to be congratulated on having secured a board of Water Commissioners with as much activity and push as the present board. Their object seems to be to have the business done as soon as possible and done well. The Engineer, Mr. Blake, is also a man of push and heartily co-operates with them. As will be seen in our news columns, another step has been made this week by the award of the contract for laying the pipes. Mr. Eglee, the successful competitor, is a man of wide experience as a contractor, full of energy and with good financial backing. It is believed that in him the board has secured the right man for the right place.

The matter of the Contractor employing Italians to do the work, seems to have made considerable of a scare in town. That the police force would have to be doubled and many other things done to protect life and property are a sample of what some think. Now there is no need of such a feeling. It is a fact, learned by experience that the Italians are the quietest and the least probable to cause trouble, of any class of men, which could be employed. The men whom Mr. Eglee employs, are from Northern Italy and are not the scum of the place. While at work in a town they live in one place by themselves and are very seldom seen out of working hours. They speak no English and if not troubled by anyone, will give no trouble, so that no fear need be entertained by their coming.

The following quaint epitaph on husband and wife—the husband having died first—is to be seen in one of the Parisian cemeteries: "I am anxiously awaiting you.—A; D. 1827." "Here I am.—A. D. 1827." The good lady had taken her time about it.

"Elijah," asked the President as they made their way out of Fanuel Hall, "Elijah, why, for the last half hour or so, have I been like our friend Blaine?"

"Your reverence," replied Elijah, after deep thought, "I must give it up. Why have you been like him?"

"Because, Elijah, people have looked upon me as the main man." And Elijah wondered at the climate which could affect the President's mind.

Obituary.

For three past weeks the health of Mr. David Bruce of Abbott Village has been failing rapidly and last Friday he seemed to grow worse, so much so that his family, most of which was away from home, was summoned by telegram to his bedside. Sunday, however, he appeared to revive a little, but at night he grew worse again, the end coming Monday morning. Mr. Bruce was a native of Brechin, Scotland and came to this country in 1853. He entered the employ of the Smith & Dove Mfg Co., as watchman, which position he held for a number of years. He was then promoted to overseer of the carding room in the old stone mill and for 21 years he served faithfully in this capacity retiring a few years ago. He will be remembered by many of the older boys in the village, when he used to give them an hour a day to alleviate their work in the mill. The deceased will be missed by a large number of his old friends and acquaintances, especially those, who were frequenters of the Red Springs, where they were always sure to meet him and enjoy a quiet gossip on times gone by. He was 68 years old and is survived by a widow, one son and three daughters, Alexander Bruce of the firm of Kent & Bruce and ex-Mayor of Lawrence, Mrs. Bruce, who formerly resided in North Andover, but now in Dakota, Mrs. George Poor of Haverhill, Mrs. Thomas Barracough of S. Louis and Miss Susie Bruce, all of whom, with the exception of Mrs. Bruce of Dakota, were present at the funeral, which took place from the house Wednesday afternoon. Rev. F. A. Wilson of the Free Church conducted the services, and a quartette from the church rendered appropriate selections. The funeral was largely attended by his many friends, who deeply mourn the loss of an upright and honest man. The bereaved family have the deep sympathy of the community. Interment took place at Spring Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Charlotte K. Norton, wife of E. H. Norton, Jr., instructor in Phillips Academy, died at the Lawrence General Hospital Tuesday of congestion of the brain, at the age of twenty-four years. Deceased was born in Lancaster County, Pa., and previous to her marriage last Christmas, resided in Southern Delaware, and subsequently in Philadelphia. She was under the care of Dr. Chamberlain and at his suggestion was removed to the Hospital, July 8. Mrs. Norton was an attractive lady, loved by all, and highly esteemed by the many friends she made during her short stay in this town. The heartfelt sympathy of all who know him, is accorded her bereaved husband in his sudden affliction.

The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Chapel, Prof. E. C. Smyth officiating. A male quartette sang "Come unto me," and "Nearer my God to thee." The remains were taken to Spring Grove Cemetery for interment.

Mr. Frank D. Leonard died at his home in the rear of the Town Hall, Wednesday evening about 6.30 at the age of 54 years. The cause of his death was cancer of the bladder and he had been ill for some ten weeks. During this time he suffered intensely, but bore it bravely to the end. The deceased was employed by J. W. Barnard, having been book-keeper for him fourteen years in his store in Boston. When Mr. Barnard gave up business there, he went to Brockton, and about three years ago came to this town to resume work with Mr. Barnard, bringing his family here to reside. Mr. Leonard was a quiet, unassuming man, strictly upright in all his dealings, and highly spoken of by his employer. The funeral occurred this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. J. J. Blair officiating, and the remains were taken to Brockton for burial.

A rather peculiar, yet sad case happened in the small house belonging to Joseph Johnson, on Salem St., last Sunday, when Mary E. Pfyffer died of phthisis, at the age of 31 years. She came here in May from Boston, her husband having died in March, thinking the change might be beneficial. She boarded for a while, but soon her four young children, the oldest not over nine, came to town and the family took the house mentioned above. Here they lived very poorly, although it is said that she had income enough from buildings which she owned in Boston, and why she lived in this condition without any comfort, is not known. She had been ill for a year and gradually failed after she came here. The remains were taken to Boston for burial, Monday.

A great deal has been said about the vacant pulpits in the land and the crying need of ministers to fill them. But there is a vacant chaplaincy in the army to be filled next month, and 250 ministers have already filed applications for the place. Perhaps a regimental camp is a "wider field of usefulness" than we often read about.—Springfield Union.

The Contract for laying the Water Pipes Awarded.

The board of Water Commissioners on Wednesday opened and examined the proposals for laying the water pipes. There were ten bids for the job and over $30,000 difference in the estimates. It was finally decided to award the contract to Charles H. Eglee of Flushing, N. Y.. He is a well known and large contractor, having done several jobs in Massachusetts. The work will probably begin in about three weeks and the contractor will employ a force of 200 or more Italians. There are twenty miles of pipe to be laid and a force like the above named can lay over 2 miles a week.

The contract is to be finished, at any rate, not later than Dec. 15. Public safety will be assured, when the streets are dug up as the contractor is obliged to take all necessary precautions by erecting safeguards and warnings and providing watchmen and lights. All drains, Culverts etc., temporarily disturbed, will be restored and in regard to the streets we quote the following paragraph from the specifications:

"The street, as soon as the BACK-FILLING IS COMPLETED, shall be cleaned of all rubbish resulting from the work, the trenches smoothed and raked and valve-box covers exposed. The streets and highways, especially in the villages, have been brought to their present condition at considerable expense and the contractor will be required to supplement his work of back-filling with such labor and surface materials as may be necessary during the term of his guarantee, to restore the present hardened road surfaces.

The Frye Village club will play the Albion 2nd eleven Saturday afternoon on the grounds of the Albions.

Abbott Village.

Miss Lizzie Buchan is spending her vacation this week at Marblehead and Danvers.

Owing to the non-arrival of the Boots Saturday, a game was played between teams captained by Wm. Greig and Geo. D. Lawson. The former batted first but were all dismissed for 18 runs, although it contained several of the crack batters of the first eleven. Lawson's team was more fortunate and secured 50 runs before the tenth wicket fell, of which Bruce, White, and Low had 9, 8, and 8 respectively. Lawson's team thus won by 32 runs. On Monday a scrub team of the Andovers played the Frye Village Club on the grounds of the latter and after an enjoyable game returned home victors by 30 runs. Bruce and Lowe played well for their scores of 24 and 28, while Smith bowled well for Frye. Score, Andovers, 85; Frye Village, 51.

Mr. James Hopkins, leader of the Billerica Band, was visiting at his cousin's, Alex Anderson, Saturday.

A party of about twenty enjoyed a picnic at Haggett's Pond last Saturday afternoon and a moonlight ride in the evening.

Steamer J. P. Bradlee No. 2 was out at Clarke's Brook last Thursday evening. A stream was thrown 247 feet from an 11-1/4 inch nozzle and this without extraordinary effort on the part of the boys. Messrs Wm. Frosh and Phillip Noessel were judges. No paper was used in marking the stream but the drops only were used to measure from. It is the opinion of many that a greater distance would have been given had paper been used and the boys are quite confident that with a greater effort they can beat this by at least 25 feet.

Miss Lizzie Conway is in New Haven for a fortnight's vacation.

Mr. Wm. Townsend is clearing the brush from his Chester St. lot.

There is reason to believe that the game laws have been broken lately by parties who should know better than to shoot half-fledged partridges and woodcock. We do not care to mention names nor have we proof sufficient to convict, but anyone who is sufficiently interested and who can bring proof, will be aided by President of the Gun Club, Mr. W. H. Sleath or the secretary who will spare no effort to bring the offender to justice. If they were amateur gunners the offence would not look so black but to have professional gunners in this business is too much.

A clothing store will be opened in the store owned by Miss Frye, shortly, it is said.

A picnicker at Shawshen Grove had a narrow escape from drowning last Saturday afternoon. His boat was overturned back of William Quinn's place on River Street, and but for the efforts of two lads who were in another boat, he would have surely been drowned as he was sinking for the second or third time when rescued.

The band came down last evening, preceded by the usual cloudy weather, but was much enjoyed, nevertheless.

Eddie Hayward returned home Tuesday, coming from California.

The Young People's Society of the Union Church made a splendid selection when they appointed their flower committee. The sick as well as the pupil at the church have been supplied with tasty bouquets all this summer.

NORTH ANDOVER.

One of Mr. Edward Adams' horses died last week.

Perhaps it might prove interesting to North Andover people to hear something of the town of Hopdale as some of its former citizens have located there, and others are thinking of buying places and settling permanently.

We find, by searching the records, that this lively little town was created by an act of Legislature, and received the approval of the Governor, April 7, 1886.

It has an interesting history, and an auspicious future as its rapid growth will testify.

In area it is a little over five and one half square miles, in length less than five miles, and its mean width hardly one mile and a quarter. It is traversed its whole length by a goodly little stream called Mill River. This town adjoins the town of Mendon which is rich in historical interest, and was laid in ashes by King Phillip's warriors in the winter of 1675; five persons were slain by the Nipunick and the Naragansett Indians. Concerning this attack Cotton Mather said, "Blood was never shed in Massachusetts Colony in a way of hospitality before this day."

The manufacturing operations of this town are its chief interest, and are marching forward year by year to vast proportions. Foremost in importance is the firm of Geo. Draper & Sons; its senior dying in the midst of his success in 1887, its head since 1868. The Hopdale Machine Co. was incorporated in 1867; it manufactures a variety of patent machinery, has an ample foundry, screw making department, and a capital of two hundred thousand dollars.

The Dutcher Temple Co., incorporated at the same time, has a capital stock of forty thousand dollars; it makes the Dutcher and other patent Temple's and seamless knitting machines and numerous other machinery. These companies have large, handsome, brick buildings covering over three acres of flooring.

The Firm of A. A. Wescott & Sons manufactures spindles for the Drapers and others; they employ sixty men, and turn out over two thousand spindles per day; they have an establishment south of the others.

All these companies have good water power, supplemented with steam for all needful purposes; and taken together have the practical working control of patents and improvements to the number of four hundred, indispensable to the cotton and woolen manufactures of New England. Their annual sales are from one to two millions, and their pay roll over six thousand dollars per week. Their employees receive better compensation than the average, and have never struck for higher wages.

Later has followed the Elastic Fabric Co., capital stock one hundred thousand dollars, orders crowding, and business good. Such a rising tide of manufacturing prosperity has wrought its results in Hopdale village, its dwellings have trebled, its streets have been macadamized, sidewalks concreted, churches renovated, gas and electric lights for street lighting, and water supplies through pipes from Milford furnishing ample safeguard against fire.

The town has a valuable library building in the center, donated by George Draper; it is built of granite and brown stone, it is a noble structure and cost over forty thousand dollars.

There is now nearly completed an elegant new high-school building which will be ready for occupancy for the fall term of school.

The only drawback to the success of this town heretofore, has been the want of transporting facilities, the nearest railroad being Milford; but the new railroad is nearly completed and will be in working order by November; it is, I believe, a branch of the Boston and Albany. A passenger and freight depot will be located in the centre of the village. What more could be asked to make this, in time, a flourishing city?

The reception tendered Rev. H. H. Leavitt in the Congregational Church vestry, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Church and Society Committee, was well attended, over a hundred being present. Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt, upon entering the vestry were received by Deacon Joseph Stone, who in behalf of those present, welcomed Mr. Leavitt with a few well-worded remarks.

He expressed the pleasure which all felt at seeing him among them again. The two members of the parish who had been called away during the pastor's absence were referred to in a feeling manner. Congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt on the progress which the church had made under their leadership, Deacon Stone wished them many years more of prosperous work in the same field.

Mr. Leavitt, in response, thanked his friends for their kind thoughts towards himself and wife. He spoke briefly of his trip abroad and the countries through which he passed. Although much impressed by what he saw abroad, and having received many valuable ideas, Mr. Leavitt said he was glad to return home, and that he resumed his duties with even greater interest than ever before.

Miss Edna Holt then read the following original poem of welcome:

OUR PASTOR.

We kneel, and lo, from many lips,
Was voiced the self-same prayer:
Lord, bring our pastor safely home,
Guard him with special care.

The sea is wide, but well we know,
Within thy mighty hand
Thou holdest it; and its proud waves
Are stayed at thy command.

O may the winds blow soft and bland,
May skies be clear and bright,
And may Thine eyes which slumber not
Watch o'er him day and night.

For O, within a love-crowned home,
A wife, with tender grace,
And bright-eyed children longing wait,
Their loved one to embrace.

And the great congregation too,
Will joy to hear his voice;
And with the happy household band
Will heartily rejoice.

But some will come with tear dimmed eyes,
And hearts so sad and sore;
For some, that they have cherished here,
They'll greet on earth, no more.

For thrice the Reaper's stood and cried,
"The Father bids thee come."
And infancy and manhood brave
Have joyfully, gone home.

So in our joy, and in our grief,
With smiles and tears, we'll come;
And with united hearts, we'll bid
Our pastor welcome home.

Mr. Leavitt then passed among those assembled, shaking each by the hand and receiving many congratulations on his safe return. An excellent collation was served by the ladies, after which the evening was passed socially and in singing hymns. The affair was most successful and showed Mr. Leavitt in what high esteem he is held by the congregation.

Mr. John Miller Welch who was stopping at Mr. Geo. Loring's, died suddenly of heart disease, Tuesday. He was a well known Boston citizen.

Mrs. John Laycock and Miss Clara Laycock returned from Old Orchard, Tuesday.

Mr. Edward Adams is in Maine.

Monday evening Wynona Lodge I.O.G.T. entertained about twenty members from Longfellow and Riverside Lodges, Haverhill. Chief Templar F. W. Eaton welcomed the visitors in a neat speech, after which the following programme was rendered: organ selection, Miss Edith Clark; remarks by Chief Templar Carter, Longfellow Lodge; reading, Miss Alice Harris; speech, Brother Noyes, Riverside Lodge; reading, Lexie Saunders. Remarks were also made by Brothers Kerry and Cook, Riverside Lodge; Rev. Elias Hodge; Brother Seaver, Washington Lodge, Lawrence; and by Lodge Deputy M. Manchester. A first class collation of ice-cream and cake was then served. The affair broke up at a late hour, the visitors expressing themselves greatly pleased at the kind and hearty manner in which they had been received.

A wag who applied at the police station the other day for a lodging ticket had one of his arms in a sling, and the sergeant inquired:

"What sort of an accident did you meet with?"

"Got hurt on the cars."

"Break your arm?"

"Yes."

"Company's fault?"

"It was. It was owing to the gross carelessness of the engineer."

"Did they settle?"

"No, sir."

"Are you going to sue?"

"No, sir."

"Seems to me if I was marked up that way I should want pay for it."

"I am not that kind of a man, sir. When I tackle a freight train for a free ride, and get knocked off the bumpers by the car jumping a switch, I just let that railroad company pursue the even tenor of its way and don't say a word. I am only too thankful that the brakeman didn't jump on me after I was down."—Detroit Free Press.

POETRY.

Hampton Beach.

The sunlight glitters keen and bright,
Where, miles away,
Lies stretching to my dazzled sight,
A luminous belt, a misty light,
Beyond the dark pine bluffs and wastes of sandy gray.

The tremulous shadow of the sea!
Against its ground
Of silvery light, rock, hill, and tree,
Still as a picture, clear and free,
With varying outline mark the coast for miles around.

Ha! like a kind hand on my brow
Comes this fresh breeze,
Cooling its dull and feverish glow,
While through my being seems to flow
The breath of a new life, the healing of the sea!

So then, beach, bluff, and wave, farewell!
I bear with me
No token stone nor glittering shell,
But long and oft shall Memory tell
Of this brief thoughtful hour of musing by the Sea.

—Whittier.

For men are like the waves that roll
Along the mighty deep—
That lift their crests awhile and foam,
And then are lulled to sleep;
While other billows swelling come,
Amid the foam and spray,
And as we view their furtive track,
Sink down and—where are they?

—Anon.

Roll on, thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll,
Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain,
Man marks the earth with ruin; his control
Stops with the shore. Upon the watery plain,
The wrecks are all thy deeds.

—Byron.

Youth with with thousand masted vessel,
Flows the sea at morning light;
Age with shattered skiff escaping,
Calmly drifts to port at night.

—Schiller.

Now would I give a thousand furlongs
Of sea for an acre of barren ground: long heath,
Brown furze—anything. The wills above
Done! but I would fain die a dry death.

ORIGINAL COMMUNICATIONS.

Rev. Mr. Leavitt in Paris.

Dear Editor: Your readers may like a little account of the Exposition which is in progress here, and which is the occasion at least, of one of the greatest tides of travel setting hither, which has ever been known. Every steamer from America is crowded, and passage must be engaged long beforehand, or it cannot be had. And it is not only from America, North and South, but from England and all the continental countries the people flock to Paris this year, so that it is a hazard to come without quarters engaged beforehand, even though Paris is better prepared to entertain strangers than perhaps any other city in the world.

This is not only a year of a great exposition here, but it is a great Centennial as well. France was a little behind us in working out her independence, but only a little behind, and she is celebrating what to her means only less than our Centennial did to us. The world was ready to cordially take part in ours, but these continental countries do not so easily forget in the case of France, that it came very near being the end of their monarchical governments, this independence of France, and also that republicanism in France today—unballasted as it seems to us to be—is far from being a help to government by privileged classes in other countries. Popular rights are not popular in most of Europe, so but few countries hereabouts are officially represented in this Exposition. But, though not officially, all are represented by their exhibits, Germany alone being practically without a place.

The French are just the people to get up an Exposition. They enthuse at low temperature and when they are moved their money is available—witness the colossal enterprises they have attempted! Witness the Suez Canal and the Panama Canal. (By the way, there is nothing in the Exposition regarding the Panama Canal, while Suez is fully set forth and illustrated in a special room.) Witness too, the great copper syndicate, the greatest combination of modern times. Still, though so many millions have been hopelessly embarked in two of these schemes, there was enough to launch the Exposition in a manner every way worthy of France. The main buildings are of brick ornamented with stucco, and elaborately ornamented too. These are only temporary structures, but are worthy of a better fate than their contemplated short-lived existence.

The place selected is the drill-ground along the Seine. It was a sandy waste, I am told, but it is now transformed into a succession of beautiful gardens, when it is not occupied by the monster buildings. Machinery Hall, which is the building of all, and forms the base of the great V which the main buildings all make, has the largest roof of any building in the world. It is an iron frame, and glassed over the whole vast sweep. This is one of the wonders of the Exhibition, the roof of this magnificent Hall. There is not a support through all the vast area—the roof is hung like a suspension bridge.

The other principal feature of the exhibition is the Eiffel Tower. No nation but the French would probably have ever ventured on such an undertaking as to build this tower (just as none but the French would have undertaken to build a Bartholdi statue). The tower is beyond realization even when it is seen—much more before it is seen. It is entirely of iron, and a thousand feet high. The four huge feet which constitute the base, form a one hundred metre square on the ground—and the arches made by the girders, sweeping in a vertical semi-circle, from one foot to another—and so great that the old South Church, steeple and all, could be placed underneath and there would still be space between the top of the steeple and top of this colossal arch. And yet this is only part way to the first landing, and the mere beginning of the tower. Staircases go to this, and to a higher platform, in each of the four feet; and besides these, four double elevators go up in them, to carry passengers. From the platforms spoken of another elevator goes to the top of the tower, or nearly so, and from eight o'clock in the morning until eleven o'clock at night, there is an unending crowd waiting to be taken up. The charge is forty cents to the first level, or base; sixty cents to the second story, and a dollar to the top. One must spend nearly a day to get up and down, so great is the demand to be elevated. Between seven and eight thousand tons of iron were wrought into this tower, which is built like ordinary iron bodies. Mr. Eiffel, the builder, for whom it is named, is a bridge builder by profession. It cost him a million dollars, and is a project which he expects will prove a financial success, on account of the visitors who will risk the ascent. In a clear day it is said a magnificent view can be had of all the region. Mr. Eiffel has a room in the very top. The tower is to stand twenty-five years. No doubt it will be a good investment. Gas pipes are so run around and up the tower with little porcelain shades attached that it is illuminated at night most brilliantly.

I understand that 350,000 paying visitors enter the Exposition daily, the admission being ordinarily ten cents in the daytime and twenty cents at night; but there are frequent "fete days" when the admission is raised to as high as a dollar. It is clear the Exposition will pay. And outside visits to it and the thousands upon thousands it is attracting to Paris make this an inevitable harvest season to them.

The people seem to be very good natured, as prosperous people are apt to be generally. I have not detected any marked attempt to swindle visitors. It is easy getting about, even for one not knowing the language. As regards the exhibit, they are, of course, principally French, though by no means exclusively. There have constantly been large sales already, especially of statuary and plate glass, in the form of mirrors. I see many American names attached as purchasers. I noticed also some articles of furniture, elaborately carved, marked for American destination. The space covered by the exposition, in its entirety, is enormous: by far the largest ever devoted to such a purpose as I understand. Persons who come to Paris this year, unless they have a great amount of time, will hardly do much more than visit this French Centennial Exposition. We have every reason to extend the congratulatory hand to this nation on this jubilee occasion, as France extended a helpful hand to us a little more than a hundred years ago when we were struggling for our occasion for jubilee.

H. H. LEAVITT.

Paris, July 25.

Letter from France.

TOURS, FRANCE, JULY 17, '89.

Dear Townsman:

Leaving New York June 20, in the steamer Gellert of the Hamburg Line we arrived at Plymouth on the morning of June 30, and at Cherbourg in the afternoon. At each place two small steamers landed passengers from the Gellert after which she proceeded on her way to Hamburg. The Hamburg Line is both comfortable and reasonable in price. Your correspondent will not soon forget the utter Babel she experienced the first two hours on board! The ship's company and most of the passengers speaking only in German, the forlorn Americans were forced to group hopelessly and almost helplessly about, and the first meal (lunch) was not reassuring—it was as essentially German as the speech. In fact, the Americans—those "to the manner born," for there were probably no German passengers on the ship who did not call themselves "Americans"—never got used to those lunches, such new and strange food, such varieties of sausage, smoked fish, meat, etc., as we had never dreamed of as existing. Surely the German resources in these respects are prolific! And then the "drinkables"! Corks were popping from morning till the small hours of the morning again, and it was a sound sleeper who could not hear the order for "zwei bier" resound through the saloons or passage ways till past midnight. At this season of crowded steamships one is fortunate to obtain as much of comfort as was to be had in the Gellert, and we were satisfied.

Arriving at Cherbourg the first thing that struck the eye was the light color of the buildings, pavings, streets, etc., it being rather glaring. Cherbourg is one of the grandest naval stations in the world. We left C. the following morning, rested and soothed by our night's sleep on terra firma and the gentle, sweet air of France, which is of itself a balm. After eight hours tedious riding over the Eastern Railroad, Eiffel Tower loomed up before us, telling of Paris close at hand. Soon we were delightfully quartered in that great city for the remainder of the week. We were twice at the Exposition, and our supreme idea connected with it is that of fatigue! It is too grand for human conception, taken en masse. The Tower takes away one's breath and exhausts one's imagination before they start on the endless tour of buildings, etc.

The United States department relieved our weary eyes by its inferiority of size as well as by the familiar firm names and signs scattered about. Three of Edison's Phonographs are working constantly, and seemed to me the wonders of the Exposition, greater than all the rest; for what is so wonderful as the mysterious, and what more mysterious than the human voice, or a full band of music repeating themselves from those little wax-covered cylinders? In Machine Hall, at one end of the main building, Edison's inventions alone form the largest single exhibit in the whole Exposition, thus atoning for the inferior size of the United States Department.

In Paris, an American is almost as much at home as in America. Especially was this the case on Fourth of July; for the day seemed to be as popular there as with us, if possible, and the American flag in loving combination with the French flag, hung from buildings and windows all over Paris. The American Fête in the evening at the Exposition Grounds, on the occasion of the French Government formally receiving the statute of Liberty given it by our Government, was an immense affair. The buildings were ablaze with illuminations, Japanese lanterns hung across the bridge spanning the Seine, and through the grounds. Flags were arranged after the tasteful manner of the French. The magnificent fountains played great bodies of luminous, colored water, one moment red, the next green, then purple, and so on. Beautiful fireworks, and music by the best bands in France, made this an occasion to be enjoyed but rarely in a lifetime. The entrance fee to the Exposition is so small (ten cents), that it is crowded with the lower classes, making it tedious at times to those who would be willing to pay more and go less often. Already there is talk of making the prices, for one day of the week, so high as to keep away the masses, which would be a boon to many who now dread to go.

"NELSON."

Letter from the South Shore.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, AUG., 1889.

We've made up our minds the one place where extremes meet is the noted locality above specified. When the redoubtable steamer of the Old Colony Co. approached the pier of Cottage City, and "music by the band" on shore emphasised the grand occasion, a perfectly immense crowd of human forms in all gay and holiday colors seemed to say to the traveller, "You are introduced to the very centre of population." Having a strict regard for veracity we will not insist that "all creation" had there massed; besides, there was a distinct recollection of having left behind us a very respectable portion of the intelligent world. Now should you here land, and cast a wondering eye over the elaborate, elegant, and substantial monuments of modern civilization, the structures and appliances which tell so surely of city life, the idea of a "Retreat" might possibly arise in your mind. But 'twould be that this is precisely the place for the tired, the ailing, the quiet-loving folk to retreat from.

Away from the "madding crowd," is a sentiment, however, that can easily be indulged. Cottage City itself offers unique attractions in this very line. Nowhere, perhaps, on this or any other planet, can it be shown so completely as within the jurisdiction of this locality how independence and individuality of private life join with publicity and social advantage. Nature and art, every variety of taste and every measure of capacity (the purse now considered) here combine their power of production in suiting the necessities, desires, or whims of parties whomsoever.

The ramblor who comes to the Vineyard—and "ramble," we say, if you can—will want to visit a good many notable places, taking Cottage City, or more properly Oak Bluffs, as the central and starting point. Six miles thence, by a narrow gauge R. R., you come to Edgartown, well worth a special visit. Of this, with perhaps some other points, we may speak in another communication.

SELECTIONS.

Runaway Sailor Boys.

If I had a boy who had read of green islands and wrecked sailors until he could shut his eyes and see parrots and monkeys and coconuts and waving palms—if he had firmly made up his mind that he could never be happy until cast away on an island and reduced to a goatskin overcoat, I should take him out behind the barn and say:

"My son, I see that you are not happy. You evidently hunger for something which my limited means will not permit me to give you. I think you want to be wrecked. Very well. There's the river and an old skiff, and you can find an island a few miles down. Get two or three pieces of tarred rope, a plug of navy tobacco, and a fish hook and go on with the wrecking business. If you like it come home at the end of a week and I'll send you out to the Pacific, where the mosquitoes are bigger and the cannibals more numerous."

If the boy went I should look for him back next morning—certainly at the end of two days, and when he got back the subject should be tabooed forever.

It is natural for every boy to yearn for the deep blue sea and the life of a sailor. He hasn't the least idea that a sailor has anything to do but sit around the capstan and spin yarns and answer, "Ayel, ayel sir!" when the captain calls out the name of Jack Brace. He therefore desires to go to sea and visit foreign countries and come home with the bronze on his face and a roll to his gait. Don't give your boy a chance to run away. When the signs become plain, have your plans all perfected and be ready to say:

"James, anybody could tell by the way a you handle a clothes-line that you were born for a nautical cut to your jib, and it is plain enough that the bounding billow is your true element. I have arranged for you to make a trip on the lakes, and will then help you to get a birth on an Indian-man. Be all ready to-morrow morning, James."

I'd put him on board a schooner bound, say, from Oswego to Chicago, and I'd forward money to Chicago for him to come home by rail. If the money was't there, he'd come on foot. With the dark, damp fore-castle, the seasickness, the curses and rope's-ending from the mate, the pulling and hauling, grease and tar buckets, he'd land in Chicago feeling that it would be a privilege to live on turnip at home and sleep in the garret on a straw bed. I've been right there, and I know.

No father should be surprised if his boy develops a yearning to become a mighty hunter. There is something highly fascinating in the idea of knocking over buffaloes, lions, tigers, elephants, and giraffes, and of successful encounters with alligators and boa constrictors. When the signs begin to crop out the father should be ready. Take the boy out and sit down on a log with him and say:

"James, it's a burning shame for me to keep you around home here and spoil your whole future. I came across a bar of lead, half a pound of salt, and a loaf of bread which you secreted in the oat bin yesterday as a starter for going West. There's no need for any slyness, my son. I want you to go. I shall be proud of you if you become a great hunter. I'll lend you the shotgun and two horse blankets and a frying pan, and help you to carry them to the nearest piece of woods. If you'll stay there three days and three nights, then I'll fit you out and send you to the Black Hills."

He'd be almost certain to come sneaking into the back door before bedtime, but if he put it off till morning so much the better. He'd have the whole night in which to turn pale, look about with wild eyes, shiver at every sound, hold his breath at the hoot of an owl, and to promise himself over and over again:

"Just let me live till morning and I hope to die if ever I leave home again!"

Abraham Lincoln's Religion.

He was a man of profound and intense religious feeling. We have no purpose of attempting to formulate his creed; we question if he himself ever did so. There have been swift witnesses who, judging from expressions uttered in his callow youth, have called him an atheist, and others who, with the most laudable intentions, have remembered improbable conversations which they bring forward to prove at once his orthodoxy and their own intimacy with him. But leaving aside these apocryphal evidences, we have only to look at his authentic public and private utterances to see how deep and strong in all the latter part of his life was the current of his religious thought and emotion. He continually invited and appreciated, at their highest value, the prayers of good people. The pressure of the tremendous problems by which he was surrounded; the awful moral significance of the conflict in which he was chief combatant; the overwhelming sense of personal responsibility, which never left him for an hour—all contributed to produce, in a temperament naturally serious and predisposed to a spiritual view of life and conduct, a sense of reverent acceptance of the guidance of a Superior Power. From that morning when, standing amid the falling snowflakes on the railway car at Springfield, he asked the prayers of his neighbors in those touching phrases whose echo rose that night in invocations from thousands of family altars, to that memorable hour when on the steps of the Capitol he humbled himself before his Creator in the sublime words of the second inaugural, there is not an expression known to have come from his lips or his pen but proves that he held himself answerable in every act of his career to a more august tribunal than any on earth. The fact that he was not a communicant of any church, and that he was singularly reserved in regard to personal religious life, gives only the greater force to these striking proofs of his profound reverence and faith.—August C.

The Congregationalist says that the summer may be a good time for the promotion of acquaintance between the older and younger persons in the church through a temporary merging of the prayer meetings, supposed to belong rather exclusively to each element during the rest of the year. Better one well-attended, well-sustained prayer meeting during these hot weeks than two apologies for it.

Rev. Mr. Isé of Japan will occupy the Chapel pulpit next Sabbath.

Notes from York Beach, Me.

One of the noted events of the season's pleasures, at this place, and indeed we learn that they have not been few, was a select and highly enjoyable gathering Tuesday evening, at the Fairmont House, "Andover Home" as it might properly be styled at present, from the goodly representation of people from town who have, for a brief season, been most thoroughly at "home" here. The affair we venture to call a "Japanese Party," and the interior of the parlor and dancing hall were finely decorated with material of genuine Japanese workmanship, having been kindly loaned for the occasion by Mr. A. H. Noyes of Haverhill, proprietor of the Casino. The artistic decorations were under the supervision of Mrs. J. W. Berry of Andover, assisted by several lady guests of the house. Large Japanese figured squares, Chinese lanterns suspended diagonally across the ceiling, and bunting were used as means of adornment, with a good effect. The dance orders were also in keeping with the decorations, and the eight numbers designated were presented under the direction of Mrs. Corning of Haverhill.

Miniature fans were presented each guest, and will doubtless be treasured as mementoes of an agreeable time.

The ladies who received the congratulations of those who attended as guests for their painstaking efforts and the successful termination of a merry evening were: Misses Fannie Berry, Anna B. Chase, Posey Barnett, Amy Battles, Hattie Harnden, of Andover, and Miss B. A. Sawyer of Haverhill, niece of Mrs. Annie Sawyer Downs of Andover, Mrs. Corning, Haverhill.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker, the genial host and hostess of the Fairmont, are untiring in endeavoring to please their guests, and aided materially in adding to the pleasantness of the affair. Persons were present from the Grand View, Atlantic, Ocean House, and several other hotels.

Several of the Andover people leave the beach to-morrow (Sat.) for home.

BASE BALL.

Niotus 12; Canoe Club 11.

The Niotus team won its second game in the Merrimack Valley Association by defeating the Canoe Club last Saturday afternoon by a score of 12 to 11. The contest was exceedingly exciting, the score being tied three times. The Canoe boys finished their half of the ninth inning with the score 11 to 11. Niotus, having the last half, made the winning run, with one man out, on an error by centre field, a base hit by Burtt and a splendid sacrifice by Dane. The features of the game were the fine catching of Burtt, the pitching of Churchill and Murphy, and the batting of Spaulding, Dane, Wood, Murphy and Brown. Both teams suffered somewhat by the decisions of the umpire, Niotus faring the worst. The score was as follows:
